LEAGUE BASEBALL MINUTES SAID TO HAVE BEEN "DOCTORED."

A. G. Spaiding Points Out That the New York Club Is in Arrears for a Large Amount, and That the League's Treasury Is Empty-Soden Will Stick.

The publication of the official stenographic minutes of the recent meeting of the National League has caused another hubbub among the baseball magnates. Two magnates made the statement yesterday that the minutes had been "doctored" by somebody. By comparing the published minutes with copies comparing the published minutes with copies of the original, these magnates charge that several important points at issue have been left out, including Brush's remarks about the Muckenfuss letters, the Louisville Sunday dutes, Freedman's speech explaining the jockey-ball player license system as embodied in the trust scheme hatched at the lead Reak conference Col. Rogers's harmony Red Bank conference, Col. Rogers's harmony speech and facts relating to the New York speech and facts relating to the New York club's obligations to the League. When A. G. Spalding requested Young to print the minutes and give them out, the latter readily promised to do so. Later he demurred, because, as he explained, he had been advised by he New York lawyork that he by his "New York lawyer" that he would be in contempt of court if he took such action. Five days ago Young sent printed copies of the minutes to each League President, but omitted to send the document to Spalding. Believing that the minutes had been held up Spalding in response to a letter from his his "New York lawyer" that he would be spalding in response to a letter from his New York representative, James E. Sullivan who had been delegated to give the minutes to the press, sent a long reply in which he the minutes with surprising accuracy. In this latest Spalding letter is the following, which will be news to baseball

"In the directors' meeting (the directors consisting of Messrs. Freedman, Brush, Soden, Dreyfuss and Young), Mr. Andrew Freedpreyfuss and Young). Mr. Andrew Freedman made the usual motion that the report of Treasurer Young, which is usually the first business taken up, be laid on the table until the assessment made on the New York club should be straightened out (which later was referred to the League itself). This motion was promptly seconded by Mr. Brush.

"Mr. Young announced that the New York club was in arrears to the League treasury for any account of operating ex-for over $2,000 on account of operating ex-penses, and exclusive of the unpaid 5 per cent. assessment.

"Mr. Freedman then presented a bill for $15,000 for rent of Manhattan Field for 1901; and I believe Mr. Brush made a motion that it be paid. Mr. Young stated the League had no money in the treasury, that it was in-debted to him for about $2,000 which he had paid out of his own pocket, anticipating the New York club would liquidate its indebtedness for operating expenses, which it had failed to pay, although repeatedly dunned the opinion that the guarantee fund of $12,000 which was placed in the League several years ago for a specific purpose, should be used toward liquidating his Manhattan Field bill of $15,000, all of which I believe Mr. Brush ap-toward liquidating his Manhattan Field bill of $15,000, all of which I believe Mr. Brush approved and claimed that this guarantee fund was available for such purposes.

"Aside from awarding the championship to the Pittsburg club, and referring the Treasurer's report to the League itself, I believe nearly the entire session of the Board of Directors of Dec. 10 was taken up discussing the New York club's arrearage to the League for its unpaid share of the operating expenses, the $15,000 Manhattan Field rent bill, and the unpaid 5 per cent. assessment against the New York club, the latter as I roughly estimate amounting to $20,000 or $30,000."

The Freedman faction has made another legal move. C. H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn Club, has been served with papers by Attorney Delancey Nicoll, restraining not only that club, but also the Pittsburg. Chicago and Philadelphia clubs from "suffering, allowing, aiding, abetting or assisting the said A. G. Spalding to exercise any control over the property or affairs of the said National League." When Spalding's personal attorney, Alfred W. Kiddle, looked over these papers, he declared that it was a clear indication that the suit now pending against Spalding was weak. In the original injunction proceedings the complainants asked that Spalding and the four clubs mentioned be restrained, but the papers were only served on Spalding.

Freedman spent Wednesday night in Boston in conference with Soden, Billings and Conant. Word was received by The Sun last night word was received by The Sun last night.

Princeton Defeats Columbia in a Rough Game at St. Nicholas Rink.

Princeton furnished a surprise at the St Princeton furnished a surprise at the St. Nicholas Rink last night by defeating the Columbia team in a hockey game by 5 goals to 1. It was one of the Intercollegiate League games and it was expected by many that, after the form Columbia showed against Harvard, Princeton would be easy. The Tigers, however, played much better than when they last appeared here. They kept Columbia on the defensive nearly all the time, but the local men did not play up to their true form.

Columbia goal and several hot shots were made but von Bermuth turned the rubber aside very cleverly each time. The fighting was kept in Columbia territory for some minutes and after a long scrimmage, during which Ogden and McAlpin each tried for a goal, Purnell got the nuck from McAlpin and again scored for Princeton.

There was a lull in the play, all the men being rather winded by the flerceness of the game, and Benedict managed to get the puck near the Princeton goal and then passed it to W. Duden, who scored the only point for Columbia. This woke the Princeton players up again and during the rest of the first half the play was very rough, and Akin and Wolff were put off the ice by the referee for being too aggressive.

In the second half Nichols took Akin's place and Wylie went on for Leake. Columbia made a determined attack on Princeton's road, but the attack was a short one and the Princeton men soon had the puck near their opponents' territory. Purnell scored from a scrimmage. Then Ogden took the puck up and shot, but Von Bermuth saved the goal. The puck bounded back and McAlpin at once put it in the net, making the fourth goal for Princeton. Shortly after this Columbia got the puck from a scrimmage in front of Princeton. Shortly after this Columbia got the puck from a scrimmage in front of Princeton was not allowed, as the referce had biown his whistle for off-side play. Near the end of the game Purnell scored again from a pass by Wylie. The teams lined up as follows:

WRESTLING.

Nick Elliott and Carl Schmidt Wrestle Braw at Clarendon Hall.

Some clever wrestlers appeared last night at Clarendon Hall, East Thirteenth street. Three bouts, including two preliminaries. were held, and the sport was keenly enjoyed by a fair-sized crowd. The main event was between Nick Elliott of this city and Carl Schmidt of Elizabeth, both in the heavyweight division. The two met at Græco-Roman style, best two out of three falls. The contest was limited to thirty minutes and resulted in a draw. Elliott in the first five minutes cut out the work, but Schmidt had plenty of strength in reserve, and at the tenth minute Schmidt got on top and made an effort to apply a hammer lock. He got Elliott's left arm almost half way around Nick's back, but his grip was weak, and Elliott broke the hold. It was nip and tuck for the remainder of the bout. In the first preliminary Lester Bernard of New York defeated Ed Ramey of Brooklyn, catch-as-catch-can rules. Bernard got the first fall in forty-five seconds and the second in six minutes. Peter Cites of the Greek-American A. C. tackled Chris Popps of Coney in six minutes. Peter Cites of the Greek-American A. C. tackled Chris Popps of Coney Island at Greeco-Roman style in the second preliminary. One fall in thirty minutes was the terms of the match. Popps was the victor, throwing Cites in seven minutes with a full Nelson.

After a good deal of bickering and talk a match has been arranged between Carl Norbeck of Norway and John Piening, the "Butcher Boy." The managers of the rival wrestlers met at a downtown office and signed articles for a contest. Johnny Dunn represented Piening, while George Higgins did the business for the foreigner. The men are to meet in this city within three weeks. The conditions are straight Græco-Roman rules, best two out of three falls to count. Bids will be left open for several days in order to give a chance to local promoters to put in offers for the exhibition. The time limit of the bout is two hours. The strangle hold is barred. Each side has deposited $100 as a forfeit.

"While in Philadelphia! I had a confab with Jenkins's representative relative to making a match," Dunn said. "I was prepared to sign articles for a meeting at mixed style. Jenkins's man declared that as Piening had met and defeated both Harvey Parker and Jack McCormick under catch-as-catch-can rules he would insist on a bout in which similar conditions prevailed. I said that Piening did not pretend to be a crackajack catch-as-catch-can wrestler, but would take a chance with Jenkins at mixed style. The Cleveland man held out for straight catch-as-catch-can rules and negotiations were dropped.

A date for the match between George Bothner, the local crack, and Charles Leonhardt will undertake to throw Bothner twice in one hour at catch-as-catch-can style.

An interesting tilt between Tom Jenkins and Rudolph Leonard was decided at Philadelphia on Saturday night. Leonard is a big fellow and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. This was Jenkins's first important engagement in six months on the mat and he was in good condition. Leonard put up a stiff argument and managed to stay eight minutes with Jenkins.

All that is needed at the north end of the city was gone into specifically by G.C. Wheeler.

Mr. Shattuck suarely reinforced the specifications and in doing so favored macadam.

Later, during a bit of pleasant argument he said that he had seen splendid macadam roads that were 2,000 years old. Commissioner Alexander spoiled the speech by interjecting—That was not in New York.

years had cost and how much a square yard was worth. He favored macadam for Broadway and St. Nicholas avenue, the latter being nov a gravel road. Richard Alexander of Marble Hill, suggested sidewalks and trees in connection with macadam roads. President Shattuck of the Automobile Club, objected.

What the good roads people proposed was the same as they gave to President Cantor last month. It was finally agreed that everything should be left in abeyance until a week from next Monday in order that the board may be able to form some estimate on what the desired improvements will cost and then be able to state whether or not the loint committee will have to go before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to ask for an extra appropriation. Pollowing are the principal points submitted by the committee.

Board of Estimate and Apportionment to ask for an extra appropriation. Following are the principal points submitted by the committee.

Kingsbridge Road—The railway tracks being completed from 162d street and Amsterdam avenue to Dyckman street, the paving of this main highway (which has been held up for over five years) can now be pushed through. From Dyckman street north the roadway is in the same condition or worse than it has been for the past ien years. Riding or driving along this road is almost impossible, and cyclists are compelled to use the sidewalks.

Boulevard Lafayette—Heavy trucking and the scattering of dirt and rocks from the Rapid Transit Contractors' Railway alongside has spoiled this drive between 168th street and 161st street. At 181st street, after every storm, the road is covered with mud to the depth of a foot or more.

Broadway—Below 135th street, Broadway is practically closed on account of Rapid Transit work, but upon the completion of same, it about, be repaved all the way from the end of the present asphalt at 119th street up to 157th street.

One Hundred and Eighty-first Street—If the section of this street between Boulevard Lafayette and Kingsbridge road was paved it would complete a direct line of roadway extending over Washington Bridge to Jerome avenue and Bronx borough, and would be the connecting link between the various main highways and the great Hudson River driveway.

S. Nionolas Avenue—This is probably the worst paved street in the upper part of Manhattan Island, especially that portion of it between 185th and 156th streets. The original macadam surface is burled by over four inches of heavy, sticky mud, and for several days after a storm there is a regular quagmire from about 136th street to 139th street. This hardens into deep ruts, making the roadway almost impassable for any kind of light vehicle and very hard pulling for business traffic. The whole street from 185th to 156th streets should be scraped down to the hard bottom and reaurfaced.

Seventh Avenue—From 142d str
